- You can obtain information about your property such as your Map and Parcel and Book and Page by visiting the assessing database: Assessor's Database link.
- The certified abutters list can be obtained from the Conservation Office by calling: 508-240-5900 or visiting the Town Hall at 2500 State Highway, Eastham for a fee of $25.00.
- An old site plan can be obtained of the property by reviewing property records at the Town Hall. Be sure to check with the Conservation Agent if you can use an old site plan. The commission or agent may require a new engineered site plan, depending on the project and if the site plan for the property is very old or does not clearly or accurately show the buffer zone and resource areas.
- Determine if your property requires Natural Heritage/Endangered species review by locating it on their mapping system found here: Natural Heritage Mapping link. If the property does fall within this area, then a Notice of Intent complete filing would need to be send to them as well for review. They will respond with a letter of no comment, or may impose conditions on the project to protect rare species.
- An Order of Conditions permit is valid for three years and may be extended for up to three years.
- On the day of the project hearing, the Conservation Commission may conduct a site visit to review project area. Trees should be flagged, and corners of proposed construction should be marked with stakes if applicable.
- The Conservation Commission may require the applicant to submit of additional information or documents for review that they deem necessary to evaluate and permit the project such as DEP field data forms, wetlands delineation methodology, stormwater management filings, etc. Sketch plans are not likely to be acceptable, the commission will require a site plan stamped by an engineer and/or land surveyor.
- The filing fee depends on the type of project. Verify the correct amount with the Conservation Agent.
